Subject: 1/22/15 - Status on TDHCA's Discontinuing to Sign Plan Consistency Certification

Many of you small PHAs are already aware of the fact that TDHCA is no longer signing off on the HUD form 50077-SL, which is required as part of your agency plan submission. This week HUD Headquarters had a conference call with the HUD field offices and TDHCA representatives to discuss the issue. Apparently TDHCA is standing firm on their decision not to be involved in this. Therefore, the field offices are "advising PHAs to submit their Plans along with a statement that they were unable to obtain the certification of consistency from TDHCA" until HUD comes up with an alternative.

In the meantime, HUD Washington is working with their Office of General Counsel to come up with a workable solution.

She said the current playground does not have a cover for shade and it also does not have playground equipment such as slides or swings and there is barely any mulch left in the playground area. She added that many residents there have children and the playground will be well used. Ms. Rios also asked whether a small window can be installed in the bathrooms to allow ventilation and prevent a buildup of humidity resulting in mildew growth. She also mentioned that there is not enough parking at Willow Brook and that homeless persons have been coming onto the property, especially at night. Ms. Bozon responded that she met with new Temple Police Chief Shawn Reynolds earlier that day and they had talked about that issue. She said Chief Reynolds will look into Temple Police doing more patrols in that area and also issuing criminal trespasses. Ms. Rios' last comment was about the roof and ceiling needing to be replaced because of wood ants, which have caused damage to the roof and ceiling.
- Ms. Pierce referred to the porch improvement project for Jonathan Moore. She asked whether the screens doors can be adjusted while the project is being done so that there are no gaps between the screen doors and the concrete.
